Wounds Bravely Borne.

Writing of the scenes after the battle of Colenso, the special correspondent of South Africa says: Some of the shell woulds were very terrible and ghastly, and many men wounded by the Mause bullets were hit in several places at once, so that it became very difficult in some cases to find an unwounded part of a man's body where he could be safely handled. Not a word of complaint was heard, and very little groaning or grieving over the wounds. Those who were able puffed away at their pipes and waited their turn for the operation tent in cold pluck. I asked several men if they wanted anything immediately, and always got the same answer: "I'm all right, sir, the orderly is getting me some soup. "When did you have your last food?" I asked. "Two o'clock this morning, sir; but I'm all right."

I saw one man standing looking at the stump of his trigger finger, which had been carried away by a bullet "You'll be all right," said I; "cheer up!

It will soon heal." ondering how soon I'll be able to get back to pay out the mon what did that, sor." Such was the spirit shown after the battle of Colenso, after about six hours' desperate fighting against a bail of bullets fired by an enemy that not a single infantryman had a chance of siming at. I questioned many of the wounded, and they all stated that they had not seen a single Boer the whole

FROM WASHINGTON.

It Is Said that Postal Director Rathbone Is to Make a "Roar" that Will Result in a Stampede of Administration Pets.

Washington correspondence: Postal Director Rathbone has issued his ultimatum from Cuba to the administration. It came in the form of a private letter to First Assistant Postmaster General Perry S. Heath, who got by order of the administration somebody would suffer. Who that "somebody" is will not be hard to discover. Hanna is the man. Rathbone first came into political notoriety in Indiana as one of the principal "blocks of five" manipulators. Since that malodorous campaign he attracted little attention until he came to the front to manipulate the Ohio Legislature and secure Hanna's election to the Senate. That notorious event still reeks in the nostrils of decent people. Of course Rathbone had to be given a job. Strange to say, the shrewd Col. William Dick advised against putting Rathbone in the responsible position of Postal Director of Cuba. Dick argued that knew too much of the inside history of Republican management, and thus armed could not be brought to account for any maladministration of office. But First Assistant Postmaster General Heath wanted just those peculiar qualities which Rathbone possessed and insisted on the appointment. He carried his point and jubilated much at his seeming victory over Dick. But now the victory rests with Dick, who is thus made the principal man, next to Hanna, in the coming campaign, while Heath is to be shelved at the first opportunity.

It is well understood that Hanna is to be held somewhat in the background of the Republican campaign. His unpleasant personality is too much an offense to his own party to make it advisable to expose him to view. Besides, his methods savor too much of brute force, and some other quality will be necessary to bring McKinley anywhere near an election. It is probable that Col. Dick will be the brains of the Republican campaign. There will be plenty of money, but as a prominent Republican leader remarked, "it all depends on the drift. If the drift is against us no amount of money can win." The drift is against the Republicans, and that means Republican defeat.

The wisdom of the late date set for the Democratic convention now becomes apparent. The Republicans have to declare themselves first and have pitcousy floundered around in the last days of Congress with schemes to head off and steal the Democratic thunder. With proposed anti-trust amendments to the Constitution, which will never become a part of that instrument, and antitrust bills which will never become laws, they intend to go before the country as the people's champions against the trust. The trust magnates laugh cheerily and think it a great oke. One of their leaders who came to Washington to see the circus at the Capitol said he could take all of the sed Republican legislation down into Wall street and secure for it the ordial indorsement and signature of every trust within twenty-four hours. What the trusts think about it can be will contribute to the Republican campaign fund. What the country wants to to support his administration.

Now comes the open assertion that Ferdinand W. Peck and his subordinates have succeeded in disbursing some thing like $800,000 at the Paris Exposition, with nothing to show for it but shackle and unsightly building. American exhibitors are complaining that they are being practically blackmailed anywhere from $300 to $1,000 apiece Congressional appropriation to prevent any such extortion.

Hunting for Republicans. Mr. Hanna has agents scouting through the country looking for founders of the Republican party. All such worthy persons who are found and who are still members of the party will be invited to attend the Philadelphia convention as guests of the National Committee. Transportation will be furnished them free, and all of their expenses will be paid out of the campaign fund. It is said that Mr. Hanna's scouts have reported the discovery of twelve of the party founders, two of whom are now Democrats. As the invited to Philadelphia. One of the founders-or at least he voted the first ticket ever nominated by the Republican party-is the Hon. Henry M. Teller, of Colorado. Mr. Hanna has extended no invitation to this gentleman to be own guest at St. Louis four years ago when Mr. Hanna founded himself, and his behavior there was not such as to commend him to the Hannaites. " Coloradan has since then assisted in the establishment of a new party-one, he says, that more nearly accords with the Republican party as he knew it at its birth, and as it remained until the Hannaites took possession of it. This new organization is the Free Silver Republican party. Senator Teller will attend the convention of this party at Kansas City on the Fourth of July, and will there tell what he knew about the original Republican party. The founders who will be the guests of Mr. Hanna are to be starred as one of the principal attractions at Philadelphia in June. Most of them are old gentlemen who for a long time have been lagging superfluous on the stage, but that they will arouse curiosity at Philadelphia there can be no doubt. Some of them may grow a little too garrulous to suit the purposes of the occasion, and if any of them should cut loose and talk about things as Senator Teller and some oth-

of prosperity. But if this is the case, why these strikes, boycotts, lockouts, etc.? Perhaps there is prosperity and HOW ITS BUBBLINGS ARE VIEWED labor is endeavoring to obtain a small portion of it, but at this present writing there are no indications that it is receiving what it should receive according to the predictions of Mr. Me-There never was a nation that has increased in its industrial achievements to such a giganite extent as has the United States, Such an increase should have attached to it the element of prosperity as a necessary adjunct. But labor is not rising up to the level of this wonderful prosperity, and its unrest is him his job. In it Rathbone declared caused by its struggle to break through that he did not propose to be made a the restraining crust. This crust is scapegoat, and that if he were attacked nothing more or less than discrimination-discrimination that favors the "aggregation of capital" at the expense of the employe. It is this discrimination that makes the Republican party so strong financially, and renders it an easy matter to raise huge corruption funds. It is this discrimination that the Democratic party is striving to break down, and which it will break down if it gets into power.-Oshkosh

Exposure Was Not Looked For. For this story of the relation of poll tics and medicine the Medical Journal vouches: A physician was summoned in haste to attend the child of a family that lived in two rooms in the heart of a large American city not New York. The child had been seized suddenly and seriously and just at election time; the mother was in despair and when the doubtful prognosis was given she broke into walling and violent self-condemnation for some horrible sin of the family, to which she said the child's illness was due-a direct punishment for their crime. She would go and curse the magistrate for it all, her, husband should resign from "the force" and such evil ways should be renounced forever. Curious to know how the mag istrate could be held responsible for the child's illness, the doctor finally secured the confession that the crime of the poor, conscience-stricken woman consisted in allowing the name of many fraudulent voters to be registered as resident in her house, in swearing to the lie, etc. The magistrate also had demanded this of all the neighbors in return for indescribable political favors. The child recovered and the mag istrate paid the physician's bil .- Philadelphia Journal.

I dropped to the ground, and as I did so I saw a rebel in the act of taking another bead at me. He fired and missed and then started to run, but I caught him on the go. FOR MALARIA, CHILLS AND FEVER.

The Best Prescription Is Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic.

The Formula Is Plainly Printed on Every Bottle, So That the People May Know Just What They Are Taking.

Imitators do not advertise their formula knowing that you would not buy their medicine if you knew what it contained. Grove's contains Iron and Quinine put up in correct proportions and is in a Tasteless form. The Iron acts as a tonic while the Quinine drives the malaria out of the system. Any reliable druggist will tell you that Grove's is the Original and that all other so-called "Tasteless" chill tonics are imitations. An analysis of other chill tonics shows that Grove's is superior to all others in every respect. You are not experimenting when you take Grove's-its superiority and excellence having long been established. Grove's is the only Chill Cure sold throughout the entire malarial sections of the United States. No Cure, No Pay. Price, 50c.

Ind., Sept. 27, 1898.

"I think it is my duty to write a letter to you in regard to what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. I wrote you some time ago, describing my symptoms and asking your advice, which you very kindly gave. I am now healthy and cannot begin to praise your remedy enough. I would say to all suffering women, 'Take Mrs. Pinkham's advice, for a woman best understands a woman's sufferings, and Mrs. Pinkham, from her vast experience in treating female ills, can give you advice that you can get from no other source.
